"War scares," he said, "trotted out when a military and navy appropriation bill is to be jammed through, are bogies, paraded forth to terrify the immature."

Sees End of Wars.

Andrew Carnegie told the National care Congress why he believed the nations soon would reach the goal of peace, and by what road they would travel. He described the cost of war and warlike preparations, and explained his confidence that the United States never need fear foreign invasion. never need fear foreign invasion. Presment Wilson and his administration, he predicted, would gain immortal glory by dealing successfully with the ques-

The goal, said Mr. Carnegie, is almost attained. "If a man wished to select the safest life possible, the one freest from all danger of violent death, let him enter our army and navy. There is not a workman attending machinery or erecting buildings, nor a railway train employe or a policeman—the soldier of civilization, whose duty is never to attack, but always to protect-not one but runs far greater risk of sudden injury or death than the soldier or marine of our country does to-day. There is little danger of any of these ever seeing war, thank God! They will only have to parade."

The speaker pictured a possible for-eign invasion as follows: "British au-thorities consider it might be possible for any enemy to land as many as one for any enemy to land as many as one hundred and seventy thousand men upon their island in three weeks, and they believe they have provided a force sufficient to deal with this number. We could cope with seven times this number of invaders, if we could only induce them to accept our invitation to march far enough inland and partake of our hospitality until they were rested and caption of a discriminatin; policy were urged by him. His amendment was voted down by a very decisive majority. All of this is to show that the existing treaty was written, ratified and exchanged with the full knowledge on the part of our government as to its true meaning.

Only Two Courses.

"Shall we now read into it an exception that was not intended when the treaty was negotiated, or shall we stand by what we said and what we intended to say?

"While the treaty was in the Senate, one of the considerations urged in Javor of the equality of all nations, including the United States, in its tariff provisions was that there would be no ground for friction with respect to the use of, the canal and that all nations alike would be interested in preserving it against attack."

Charles E. Beals, of Chicago directions was above all men as the greatest world benefactor who has ever lived, because will have laid the axe to the root of the tree and banished man-killing from the civilized world. All the good done by any or all reformers pales into insignificance compared with the banishment of this appalling crime of crimes. The President has stood, and still stands, absolutely for international peace under the reign of law."

Takes Surprising Turn.
The symposium on disarmament took an unexpected turn to-night, when two delogates raised an issue with speakers on the platform and declared their theory of disarmament impracticable.

Andrew B. Humphrey, general sected of the American Peace and Arbitration League, and Henry A. Dadmun, secretary of the Army and Navy League, were the delegates who opposed what appeared to be the general sense of the meeting.

Mr. Humphrey said he represented a society standing for an armament consistent with existing conditions and been "hammering away at the Understanding of the Improvement of the Indication of the Naving largely spent its force.

To-night there were indications that Republican teaders would not undertake to delay the passage of the bill much longer.

Representative Moore, of Pennsylvania, who has been active in offering minority amendments, voiced this view. He said the Republicans would not attempt to filibuster, and that they had been "hammering away at the Understanding of the American Peace and Arbitration League, were the delegates who opposed what appeared to be the general sections of the control of the American Peace and Arbitration League, were the delegates who opposed what appeared to be the general section.

"What the Western beet sugar people seek is to tax the American people in order to bring their beet sugar to the Atlantic seaboard, and drive out all competition. It is simply a question of freight rates."

Japanese Question Touched.

The Japanese question was touched upon by the debate on the wood schedule, several members predicting schedule, several members predicting that reductions on shingles and other wood products would turn the lumber camps of the West into Oriental labor camps. Representative Falconer, Progressive, of Washington, alluded to the Democrats as "Hindu-Chinese-Japanese lovers," and told them, "your Democratic Secretary of State is com-ing back from California to tell your Democratic President some facts about Oriental labor that he does not know."

The agricultural schedule precipitated prolonged discussion, though Air. Underwood held it down with the frequent motions to cut off debate on successive paragraphs. Amendments were offered to increase the rates on cattle, sheep, hogs, on wheat, oats and other grains, nearly every other on this schedule the session again went far into the night, though the

Mr. Dadanua declared disarmament did not prevent the war of 1812 nor in 1864, when the navy was practically dismantled. Beycott on War.

"Three or four leading peace nations combined, constituting, as they would, an overwhelming force, unbroken peace would almost certainly be insured, for to break it would be folly. If ever it were broken, however, it would be well before resorting to force for the peace-preserving nations to first proclaim nonintercourse with the offender—no loans, no exchange of products, n. military or naval supplies—above all, no nonintercourse with the offender—no loans, no exchange of products, he military or naval supplies—above all, no mails. This would serve as a solemn warning and probabily prove effective, but if not, then as a last resort force should be used. This plan seems the castest and specifiest node of attaining international speace.

"Recently world peace was upon the eve of victory. A treaty of peace was signed by Britain, France and our government, which would have proved war between civilized powers, because Germany would have given any powers threatening war just a gentle intimation that they were expected intimation that they were expected in the preservation of peace which ould not be and would not be overloaded not be overloaded not be and would not be overloaded not be overloaded not be and would not be overloaded not be as a solemn warning and probabily reference and lower first part, was few their part, was few themse and throughout the game. this great county of Essex that wants to govern itself, but does not. I have come therefore to speak not to you, but for you. I have exercised a great self-denial about New Jersey. My great temptation in choosing a sumner home, was to pitch my tent where used to. But there is going to be a contest for Governor in New Jersey next summer, and I did not want anybody to think I wanted to boss the job. I have no candidate for Governor, but I am opposed to whomever is de-sired by certain gentlemen. I don't want to see any Governor privately owned. I'm going to New Hampshire next summer, but New Hampshire is in telegraphic communication with New Jersey. Any one who wants to know what I think can learn by asking.

Country Not Democratic,
"But I want to say a few words about the Democratic party. I want everyhedy to realize that I have not been taken in by the results of the last national election. The country did not go Democratic in November. It was impossible for it to go to Re-publican, because it could not tell which kind of Republican to go. The only hopeful and united instrument through which it could accomplish its purpose was the Democratic party There were certain things we want done, the country said, not certain persons elevated. There were certain things we want demonstrated, such as that the government of the United States cannot be controlled by private interests. Now the Democratic party is going to have a try at making these things successful, and if not these things successful, and if not we're not going to have another try. The President applied his reference to the national election to the State situation, saying that if the Democratic party in the State did not redeem its pledges, including tury reform, the people might try another political party in the next election.

Mr. Wilson declared that when the Democratic party in New Jorsey three years ago had come into power, everybody wondered "If the old gang would run it, but it did not."

Harrisonburg After Manufacturers and Capitalists Who Lost in Recent Disasters.

Harrisonburg Va., May 1.—Harrisonburg is making an effort to induce some of the manufacturers and capitalists, whose plants were ruined in the recent Ohlo floods, to consider a site on which to rebuild their establishments. The Beard of Trade has appointed a committee of three of three to take up the matter with the Ohlo manufacturers. The Board of Trade has appointed a committee to push the matter of setting a silk mill located in Harrisonburg. From a good sources it is learned that this industry is almost cortainly to be located here.

It is said that the silk mill nocessitates the employment of several hundred boys and girls, and airaedy the Board of Trade has advertised for boys and girls who are willing to take work.

The committee believes that the fact that the Valley of Virginia is free from the floods and cyclones that devastate the sections of the West, it will prove a drawing card in enticing the flood victims to Harrisonburg.
